Jolicoeur Works great Awesome job. Productivity 4.4 Overall rating 5.0 Reviewing time April 28, 2010 by Steve Robinson It works great This program works great for my purposes, I would give it 5 stars except for one small flaw that really doesn't affect me. For some reason it doesn't work with 7. I get an error and it shuts down instead of starting up the program. Other than that I love it, it works great for my needs and I use it for a daily basis. Productivity 5.0 Overall rating 4.0 Reviewing time August 5, 2009 by Paul Sullivan Would be 5 stars if it worked Everything is fine on the first use, but as I restart my computer, it seems to be unable to restart the program, even if I reboot Windows 7 without shutting it down. I can launch the program, but it fails to detect the next system restarts. However, everytime I restart my machine, it fails to restart the program, or fails to find it on my computer. Productivity 4.0 Overall rating 4

- shutdown XP 2k+/XP Pro - restart XP 2k+/XP Pro - Reboot a machine from an external Media - Shutdown from Network/IP on a remote XP machine - shutdown or Restart from Network/IP on a remote XP machine - Reboot or Shutdown from an external Media - Shutdown or Restart from an external Media This is not a normal Task Scheduler, it runs at you choice of different timing (periodically, once, on demand, when computer start, when system tray opened etc) and you can choose the program to run (shutdown/restart, reboot, restart, shutdown/restart, shutdown, restart, reboot, shutdown/restart etc). With a few clicks you have complete control of the task, and it can be defined in your Task Scheduler to run at a specified time, or trigger when computer start, when user logs on, when computer gets idle, when an application comes to foreground, when a file come to foreground, when a window is created etc. What I have created is a Specialized Task Scheduler, because I think most of the Task Schedulers are limited to simple task like a Shutdown, Restart, Reboot. I have found a lot of task scheduler, so far i haven't found one that covers my need, so i have made one myself. What is Specialized? - Task Scheduler must run a Program/Executable, when a defined file or folder change. - Task Scheduler must shutdown/restart/reboot a machine, when a defined event/state occurs. - Task Scheduler must shutdown/restart a machine, when a defined event/state occurs.
