It was written by lead singer Tom Chaplin along with David Noonan and released as the second single from their second studio album, Hopes and Fears. The song, which was released on August 23, 2006, debuted at number eight in the United Kingdom. The song's music video was filmed in Riverside, California in September 2006. The song was later covered by American singer and songwriter Mariah Carey on her 2009 album, Memoirs of an Imperfect Angel. Carey's cover spent nine weeks on the Billboard Hot 100, peaking at number 21, and was the highest-charting single from the album. Reception Critical The song generally received positive reviews from music critics. Annette Obrestad of NPR gave a positive review, writing, "It's a ballad with a righteous beat, a non-cerebral mondo pop swirl. That combo, plus the laid-back power trio sound, is what creates the uplifting feelings of Keane's new single, "Furious Green." It's a clear sign of things to come on Hopes and Fears." Rob Sheffield of Rolling Stone was the most positive in his review, writing, "the burst of passion that is "Furious Green" is very memorable, and its gentle, dancing melody is the best thing Keane have done since "Everybody's Changing." Chart performance The song charted at number eight in the UK Singles Chart, and number twenty-two in the Australian Singles Chart. Music video The video for the song was e79caf774b
