link.Q: How to print a certain char/letter in a given position in tcl (or python) Let's say I have the following text "Java is a Programming language unlike C#, Ruby, Python etc." I would like to print out those words which have a specific char in a specific position, let's say B "Java is a Programming language unlike C#, Ruby, Python etc." I would expect that result to be Ruby, Python The position I want to search for can be anywhere in the string: Let's say I want to search for the letter "r" in the positions:

2 6 The result should be "Python" What would be the Tcl or python solution for this? Thanks A:

If you have the string as a variable and you want to find those two positions, say, position 2 and 6 in your string, you can look for those indices in the string: set string "Python is not a programming language" set indices [regexp -inline {\w+ is \w+\w+} $string] puts [lrange $indices 2 6]

But I had just started to get back into the habit of reading, so it felt good to be back. At the end of the last volume, the reader had thought they were done with the series, but it turns out that they're not. The series itself is about the coming of the Holy Spirit to the world, and so the whole thing culminates in the birth of Christ. In addition to that, it seemed like the whole history of the Church was coming to a close (it felt like it did in the Old Testament, at least) and I was interested to see what would happen next. The Ancient of Days, by Scott Snyder, Jonathan Hickman, and Ming Doyle Well, I can finally say that my book is done. If you're still looking for the full reviews, those are here. This series was very much in the tradition of X-Men and Old Man Logan, in that most of the action takes place in a dystopian future and features what are basically modern superheroes. In this case, the "superheroes" are a band of marauders that call themselves the "Wayward Children." They patrol the skies, their leader is a demon/god, and each of them has a deadly weapon (a pulse pistol and a sword, respectively). The book is mostly about a young man who joins them, in part because his father is one of the chief characters, but primarily because he is the main viewpoint character. I say “main” because he

The positive and negative effects of insulin on the cardiovascular system in patients with diabetes have been controversial. The effects of a non insulin secretagogue (the guanine nucleotide analogue N(G)-nitro-L-arginine methyl ester (L-NAME)) and a thiazolidinedione (rosiglitazone) on endothelial function (assessed by the response to acetylcholine in forearm resistance vessels) were compared with those of insulin and oral hypoglycaemic agents in patients with type 2 diabetes. The effects of L-NAME and rosiglitazone were comparable ($p > 0.05$) with those of insulin on endothelial function. Therapy with L-NAME or rosiglitazone was not associated with increased plasma nitrate levels. The favourable effects of insulin on endothelial function in patients with type 2 diabetes may be due to direct effects. However, further investigations are required to confirm this hypothesis.
