Ligand-DNA interactions of tetrapeptide (K) enkephalin in phospholipid bilayers.
Tetrapeptide (K) enkephalin was evaluated as an 'environment-sensitive' probe for the lipid-water interface. Its fluorescence properties were examined in different lipid systems including (diacyl-phosphatidyl)choline (PC), (diacyl-phosphatidyl)glycerol (PG), 1-palmitoyl
-2-oleoyl-sn-glycero-3-phosphoserine (POPS), 2-palmitoyl-2-oleoyl-sn-glycero-3-phosphoserine (POPS) and cholesterol (Chol). On the basis of the fluorescence measurements, the lipid binding sites of enkephalin were identified by a competitive displacement reaction. K was observed to bind preferentially at phosphatidylcholine bilayers, while PG showed preferential binding at the phosphatidylglycerol bilayer. The hydrophobic and electrostatic interactions between enkephalin and the lipids appear to be very important for its conformation and accessibility of the C-terminus. Comparison of the data with the data for opiate peptides indicated that enkephalin has similar binding sites on the phospholipid bilayers.

Farm Bill Looks For Middle Ground On Livestock Feed Updated: Thursday, May 3 2013, 04:23 PM EDT Livestock experts today were optimistic about progress on a congressional farm bill, one that might still allow the U.S. to produce enough food to feed the world, and still meet our energy needs. A Farm Bill conference committee, with the backing of both House and Senate leaders, met at the White House in a last-ditch effort to resolve a deal on appropriations for
