During the course of a project, plant engineers may have to design multiple processes and operations that are organized into several areas and components. Plant Design Suite can help to organize plant diagrams into component sheets. You can display and reuse multiple component sheets in multiple areas of a plant modeling project. Plant Design Suite enables you to create a realistic plant model by using the powerful CAE technology that represents real projects, equipment, and facilities. It can be used to model the entire plant from the general to the detailed, as well as to simulate workflows and plant operations. Plant Design Suite 2019 includes intelligent features for creating manufacturing drawings, engineering drawings, BOMs, assembly drawings, production planning, and instrumentation solutions with the CADWorx Plant Design Suite. Following an industry trend, Plant Design Suite was developed as a single product that combines all plant design functionality into a single, easy-to-use package. A complete suite of integrated tools for CAD, plant design, and production management, the software also provides exceptional computer-aided drafting (CAD) and technical support. Plant Design Suite is the only solution in its class that provides the complete suite of CAD tools and the plant design, design review, and manufacturing capabilities of MODEL-E to address the needs of a wide range of engineering disciplines. With Plant Design Suite, you are able to create and edit plant drawings with greater ease, especially if you are used to the unique features of the Plant Modeling component or PLANT-E. Drawings are automatically associated with data, and the data is then automatically converted into an Excel spreadsheet that you can update as you like. All the drawing and data is stored in the back-end Plant Design Suite database.
