If you are interested in the field of full-mouth restoration, we invite you to consider Dr. Kenneth Marentes, dentist, clinical associate professor of restorative dentistry at University of California, San Francisco. Dr. Marentes has treated patients with several challenging full-mouth restorations. Find out how he and his team of dental specialists tackle these complex restorations in some of his patients. Wisdom teeth are part of your anatomy, and they are likely to become impacted or supernumerary teeth. This normal variation has been reported in populations worldwide and is usually present as early as age 20. Your dentist will need to examine you and perform a pre-treatment assessment of your mouth and jaw. He or she will take x-rays of your mouth to find wisdom teeth that are impacting the neighboring teeth. Practice two exemplary instructional video modules to learn how to use the most important software in digital dentistry. These video modules will be an introduction to the new capabilities of exocad 4.5 as well as communication tools to simplify and accelerate your workflow. We are a family and sleep medicine dentist who has been in private practice nearly 30 years, focusing on patient-centered and preventative dental healthcare with patients who come to him from all over the world. He received his degree from the Dugoni School of Dentistry in San Francisco and is a member of the American Academy of Dental Sleep Medicine. The day his wife was diagnosed with sleep apnea was the day he began learning everything he could about sleep breathing conditions. He is a TEDx speaker and his advice regularly appears on media outlets such as NPR, CBS, The Huffington Post, Prevention, Men's Health, and MindBodyGreen. He is the creator and author of AsktheDentist.com, a website dedicated to exploring the mouth-body connection for better overall health.

The digital revolution in medicine has had an overwhelming impact on the field of implant dentistry. With new knowledge, experience and new technology they use treatment planning and technologies that may have never been used in the past. Dr. Rebecca Burchard, DDS at Burchard & Associates is well known for her cutting-edge technology. As a part of the Burchard & Associates and one of the first implant centers in this country, she strives to bring the latest in dental implant technology in her center. While there is still much more knowledge and clinical studies that need to be done, Dr. Burchard is a trail blazer to bringing these advanced technologies to the masses. It is imperative that patients visit the dentist at least twice a year for routine cleaning and checkups and more often if you suffer from gum disease or other dental problems. A full exam and cleaning is an important part of your oral health care routine to prevent problems from getting worse and put off their repair until it becomes necessary to receive a crown. At DC Dental, we provide every patient with an initial exam and cleaning and answer any questions you might have, as well as a thorough examination and recommendation for your next visit. Your visit is a complimentary service and we do not charge for the initial visit. All services are billed separately at your convenience. The Academy of General Dentistry (AGD) announced that more than 115,000 dentists now use exocad in their practice and provides dental therapists the opportunity to learn, practice, and innovate in the dental field. According to data from the American Association of Dental Programs and Academies (AADPA), dental offices use dental CAD technology at a rate of over 94% making it one of the most widely adopted clinical solutions in the dental field. As of April 2017, the AADPA estimates dental CAD software usage at nearly 114,000 dental offices across the United States. 5ec8ef588b
